Roll and Color Hearts

Roll a die. Find a heart with the same dots and color it in. Keep rolling until every heart is colored!

Roll, find, color!

Two players? Each picks a crayon. When all the hearts are colored, count: who has more?

💡 For grown-ups: why it works. Matching the die to the hearts trains children to see 1 to 6 at a glance (subitizing) instead of counting every dot, a big step for adding later. Waiting for turns and losing a roll are part of the game, and part of learning to play together.
